MENNONITE YEARBOOK

1993

THE Amish TRICENTENNIAL 1693-1993

Brief Statement of Mennonite Doctrine

This is a summary statement based on the confession of faith adopted by Mennonite General Conference in 1963. For the complete text see the Mennonite Confession of Faith. (Herald Press, paper, $1.25, in Canada $1.50)

1. We believe in one God eternally existing as Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.

2. We believe that God has revealed himself in the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments, the inspired Word of God, and supremely in his Son, the Lord Jesus Christ.

3. We believe that in the beginning God created all things by his Son. He made man in the divine image, with free will, moral character, and a spiritual nature.

4. We believe that man fell into sin, bringing depravity and death upon the race; that as sinner, man is self-centered and self-willed, unwilling and unable to break with sin.

5. We believe that there is one Mediator between God and men, the Man Christ Jesus, who died to redeem us from sin and arose for our justification.

6. We believe that salvation is by grace through faith in Christ, a free gift bestowed by God on those who repent and believe.

7. We believe that the Holy Spirit convicts of sin, effects the new birth, gives guidance in life, empowers for service, and enables perseverance in faith and holiness.

8. We believe that the church is the body of Christ, the brotherhood of the redeemed, a disciplined people obedient to the Word of God, and a fellowship of love, intercession, and healing.

9. We believe that Christ commissioned the church to go into all the world, making disciples of all the nations, and ministering to every human need.

10. We believe it is the will of God that there should be ministers to teach the Word, to serve as leaders, to administer the ordinances, to lead the church in the exercise of discipline, and to serve as pastors and teachers.

11. We believe that those who repent and believe should be baptized with water as a symbol of baptism with the Spirit, cleansing from sin, and commitment to Christ.

12. We believe that the church should observe the communion of the Lord's Supper as a symbol of his broken body and shed blood, and of the fellowship of his church, until his return.

13. We believe in the washing of the saints' feet as a symbol of brotherhood, cleansing, and service, and in giving the right hand of fellowship and the holy kiss as symbols of Christian love.

14. We believe that God has established unique roles for man and woman, symbolized by man's bared head in praying and prophesying, and by woman's veiled head.

15. We believe that Christian marriage is intended by God to be the union of one man and one woman for life, and that Christians shall marry only in the Lord.

16. We believe that Christians are not to be conformed to the world, but should seek to conform to Christ in every area of life.

17. We believe that Christians are to be open and transparent in life, ever speaking the truth, and employing no oaths.

18. We believe that it is the will of God for Christians to refrain from force and violence in human relations and to show Christian love to all men.

19. We believe that the state is ordained of God to maintain order in society, and that Christians should honor rulers, be subject to authorities, witness to the state, and pray for governments.

20. We believe that at death the unsaved enter into everlasting punishment and the saved into conscious bliss with Christ, who is coming again, and will raise the dead, sit in judgment, and bring in God's everlasting kingdom.

About the front cover: The Niklaus Moser farm at Fridersmatt in the Emmental was the site of numerous secret Swiss Anabaptist gatherings. In the late summer, early fall of 1693, controversy arose between the conservative elder Jacob Amman and his followers and those who sided with the more moderate Hans Reist. In October 1693 Amman and his adherents walked out of a meeting saying, "There you have it. . . ." and shortly thereafter held their own meeting in a barn at nearby Reutenen. This year marks the 300th anniversary of the Amish division.

Foreword

The Mennonite Publishing House is pleased to present the 1993 Mennonite Yearbook. This volume reports the current organizational picture and the statistical record of the life of the Mennonite Church (MC) in Canada and the United States in its local, conference, churchwide, and worldwide expressions. It also reflects the variety of ways in which the Mennonite Church interacts with, and relates to, the broader Mennonite and Brethren in Christ family of Anabaptist church bodies.

In 1993 we recognize the beginnings of the Amish Church. Three centuries ago in 1693, congregations under the leadership of Jakob Ammann took positions on key issues of faith and practice. These set the Amish apart as a unique body within the larger Anabaptist Mennonite family. Steven Nolt, researcher into the story of the Amish, describes how these events unfolded in the article "The Amish Story 1693-1993." He also notes the relevance of the Amish story for life today.

The Amish theme is supplemented by the visual feature on the front cover provided by Anabaptist communicator Jan Gleysteen. The back cover features published titles to which readers can turn to explore this theme in more detail. These were selected by Levi Miller, director, Mennonite Historical committee. In this tricentennial year, watch for special events and occasions planned by the Mennonite Historical Committee and others who will bring various facets of this history before us.

In "We Are the Church! We Need Each Other," David W. Mann, moderator of the Mennonite Church General Assembly and chair of the Mennonite Church General Board, describes the state of the Mennonite Church today. In his analysis, Mann summarizes the shifts that are occurring in relation to the balance of congregation, conference, and churchwide expressions. Members and organizations find themselves at various points on this continuum of church life. Mann's plea is that, in the final analysis, we need each other. Each member, congregation, conference, and churchwide expression is interrelated and part of the whole. As we maintain our commitment to, and partnership with, each other, we will carry forth the mission to which God has called us.

In this volume users will note that we have returned to the annual schedule of release of the Yearbook. Our pace of church life changes too quickly and information becomes outdated too rapidly to continue with the biennial schedule. Readers will also note that the basic features of the Yearbook continue. And, as is usual with each volume, there are some changes. These include the following:

First. In the conference entries we noted that the Gulf States Mennonite Fellowship changed its name to Gulf States Mennonite Conference. This is a reflection of its self identity and that this body has matured in its participation in the life of the denomination.

Second. Among the Urban and Area Organizations, we note several developments. The Afro-American Mennonite Association is now the African-American Mennonite Association. This name change reflects more accurately the cultural and historical roots out of which this community has come. One new group added to this directory is the Mennonite Metropolitan Church Initiative/Detroit. This is a cooperative church planting effort of the Indiana-Michigan conference as well as General Conference and Mennonite Church mission interests.

Third. One new body was added to the list of Other Mennonite Church Conferences. It is the Pilgrim Mennonite Conference. This group emerged out of the Eastern Pennsylvania Mennonite Church.

Fourth. Churchwide board listings continue with only slight changes. Two new area groups added to the list of Urban Council and Area Church Organizations under the Mennonite Church General Board are the Mennonite Metropolitan Church Initiative/Detroit (MMID) and The Phoenix Urban Ministry Council (PUMC).

Fifth. In the Directory of Mennonite Church Statistics, readers will note a new table, "Ages of Adherents in the Mennonite Church of North America," which charts the level of participation by age of members and nonmembers in congregational life. Congregations who provided a full report of these age level totals gain a clearer picture of who they are. A result may be new directions for their ministry in their local area. This table also provides basic census data needed by all conferences and churchwide boards and agencies in their long-range planning.

A look at the numbers. At the end of 1992, conferences related to Mennonite Church General Assembly included 103,861 members (a net gain of 1,237 since one year ago and 3,294 since 1985) in 1,165 congregations (a net gain of 5 since last year and 91 since 1985). In addition to these members, there are 7,689 who are members of other Mennonite bodies and 2,757 who are members of other Christian bodies who relate to MC congregations. Add 59,650 members in 840 MC-related congregations overseas to the North American numbers; then one discovers that the inclusive worldwide Mennonite Church family counts 163,511 members in 2,005 congregations

The Mennonite Church 1993

We Are the Church! We Need Each Other

by David W. Mann
Moderator, Mennonite Church General Assembly
Chair, Mennonite Church General Board

When the Mennonite Church was reorganized in 1971, the delegates declared the congregation the primary unit of Mennonite Church organization. The significance of this statement can best be understood by looking at the history of our district conferences and churchwide organization.

Role of conferences and churchwide program boards

In the earlier years, district conferences in North America were meetings of representatives of autonomous or semiautonomous congregations. During the nineteenth century, however, the district conferences of the Mennonite Church (MC) developed into authoritative ecclesiastical bodies with power over the local congregations and ministers. The Mennonite General Conference of the Mennonite Church (MC), which was formally organized in 1898, remained only advisory and not authoritative over the district conferences ("Conference," Harold S. Bender, Mennonite Encyclopedia, Herald Press, vol. I, p. 669).

The institutions and agencies of the denomination were independent and self-perpetuating. In spite of its lack of authority, the pronouncements of the Mennonite General Conference in matters of faith and life carried great weight, and the work of the committees it created had great value and influence for the church at large ("Mennonite General Conference," Harold S. Bender, Mennonite Encyclopedia, Herald Press, vol. III, p. 622).

In 1971 it seemed that the influence and role of conferences was lessening and there was need for more coordination of the program boards. In the reorganization five program boards were identified and made accountable to the Mennonite Church General Assembly and to the Mennonite Church General Board. The latter serves as the Board of Directors of the Mennonite Church General Assembly. This board is made up of representatives from 21 conferences, four members at large and representatives of the four associate groups.

The five program boards are: Mennonite Board of Congregational Ministries, Mennonite Board of Education, Mennonite Board of Missions, Mennonite Mutual Aid, and Mennonite Publication Board.

Role of the local congregation

In the new by-laws of the Mennonite Church, it seemed important to identify that the primary unit of the church is in the congregation, not in the denominational structures nor the agencies and institutions of the church. Structures and agencies exist to serve the church and carry out its mission. The congregation does not exist to serve the denominational structures and programs.

The local congregation is the place where the body of Christ takes on the flesh and blood reality of face-to-face engagement in worship, nurture, mutual care, discipline, and mission. In the congregation the church is more than a theoretical or mystical concept. We are the church when we meet together to be the people of God in covenant and community.

While the local congregation is the primary place where the church becomes real for us, the biblical understanding of "church" is much larger in scope. When Jesus commissioned the disciples, they were sent to make disciples in all nations (Matthew 28:19) and to be witnesses to the ends of the earth (Acts 1:8).

When Paul speaks of the church of God (1 Corinthians 15:9; Galatians 1:13) he is speaking in the larger corporate sense. Peter speaks of the people of God as a body that transcends ethnicity, nation, state, geography, ritual, and culture (1 Peter 2:10). In Christ we have become a new people with an identity and bond that not only unites us with Christ but also with all his people everywhere. Revelation 5:9-10 refers to the saints as those drawn from every tribe and language and people and nation who have been made into a kingdom and priests serving God. When the Christians in Jerusalem were suffering hardship, Paul gathered contributions throughout the many scattered local congregations to share with their brothers and sisters in need.

Revitalization of congregational and conference life

During the past two decades, there has been a revitalization of both congregational life and the work of the district conferences. Congregations caught a new vision, both for their own leadership and nurture needs and for their witness and ministry within their communities.

More congregations are now calling full-time pastors, in some cases multiple staff, and are providing appropriate support for these leaders. New church buildings are being constructed for growing congregations. Many congregations have responded to the ten-year Vision 95 goals by beginning outreach ministries from their congregations or through their conferences. Some conferences responded to this need for more resources for their congregations and pastors by adding both staff and programs.

As a result of this trend, we have experienced a significant shift in the allocation of congregational giving. There has been an increase in the percentage of dollars used by the congregations and conferences and a decrease in support of churchwide agencies. Many conferences are also receiving fewer contributions to their budgets. What is good and healthy about this trend? What are the concerns and cautions we should be aware of?

The trend toward allocating a larger percentage of giving to the local congregation and its program may, in many cases, reflect a new vision and commitment in our congregations for witness, outreach, and mission as a participatory venture. Rather than perceiving our mission as "out there where we send our money," we have begun to share our faith and minister to the needs of people we see and touch and love. This spirit may reflect spiritual renewal as well as the fruit of Vision 95. Many people are finding new life in their churches and new joy in sharing their faith.

On the other hand this change may reflect a spirit of provincialism which is widely represented in our society today—individualism and self-centeredness. Turning from a global vision, we become preoccupied with our own needs and comfort. Or we may be tempted to ignore the needs of the people we do not see or programs we are not personally acquainted with, in favor of those closer at home.

We are the church

We are the church—congregations, clusters of congregations, district conferences, and our churchwide fellowship of churches. As Mennonites we are not the whole church of Jesus Christ. The body of Christ encompasses brothers and sisters of many races, languages, nationalities, and denominations. The larger Anabaptist-Mennonite church is one of the families within the body of Christ. We have a special affection for and responsibility to each other as our particular household of faith. We are the church and we need each other.

The Mennonite Church is made up of a few large congregations and many small congregations. (The median size of Mennonite Church congregations is 60 members. That means one half of our 1,160 congregations are 60 members and less and the other half is 60 members and above. The average size is 98 members.) We are made up of large district conferences with many members (the three largest bodies exceed 10,000 members) and financial resources, and small conferences (the three smallest have less than 650 members) with widely scattered congregations and limited resources. The needs of our congregations and conferences vary greatly.

We need each other

We need the Mennonite Church General Board and Mennonite Church General Assembly to help us work at unity, clarifying our faith, and coordinating our denominational resources and mission. We need the Mennonite Board of Congregational Ministries, the Mennonite Board of Missions, and the Mennonite Publication Board to provide appropriate resources for carrying out our varied ministries. The Mennonite Board of Education helps us provide training for our young people so they will be equipped to be faithful stewards and leaders in the church and in the world. Mennonite Mutual Aid helps us share one another's burdens across the larger church.

We have a mission and ministry beyond our home communities to partner with congregations and conferences in other parts of our church. We have a call beyond our national borders to carry the good news of Jesus to people in other parts of the world. This also includes ministries of mercy to meet the needs of those who are suffering.

There are many ministries we can carry out in our local congregations and communities. Some ministries are of such a scope that we need to work together with others, at the conference level, at a churchwide level, and at a global level. We are the church! We need each other. How large is our vision? How strong is our commitment?

At the churchwide level, our boards and agencies are taking a very careful look at priorities. In light of the decrease in contributions, we will not be able to do all that we feel called to do. What is most important? What restructuring is needed to be better stewards of the call and resources God and the church have given us?

Congregations are encouraged to give serious consideration to their priorities and to the appropriate proportion of contributed funds expended within the congregation, through the district conference, and in support of our churchwide and worldwide mission. That proportion certainly will vary according to the size of congregations and the size of their budgets.

We are the church, we who make up local congregations, congregations clustered in district conferences, and the wider fellowship of sisters and brothers across Canada and the United States and around the world. We need each other. We need a vision of the church that is larger than our home congregations, and a commitment to be partners with each other in the mission and ministry of the kingdom of God. ■

The Amish Story 1693-1993

by Steve Nolt
Willow Street, Pennsylvania

Nineteen ninety-three marks the three hundredth anniversary of the beginning of the Amish church. Today, numbering some 63,000 baptized adult members in North America, the Old Order Amish is one of the largest groups comprising the Mennonite family of faith. The Amish church was born out of one Anabaptist response to the troubled years of the late seventeenth century.

External and internal conflict

The 1690s were not easy years for Mennonites in Switzerland. Although the government had not executed any Anabaptists for more than half a century, harassment, fines, and social stigma continued. Some of the Swiss Mennonites had already fled their homes and traveled down the Rhine River to settle in the territories of the Alsace and Palatinate. During the 1690s, other Swiss Anabaptists joined them. But even there, the Mennonites were not free from the troubles which they had faced in Switzerland. Militia laws and the prejudice of local citizens confronted the Mennonites in the Alsace and after 1688 a decade-long regional war disrupted life in the Palatinate, as well.

All of these external pressures made life uncomfortable for the Swiss and south Rhine Mennonites. But the 1690s saw internal church conflict as well. Heated discussions and debates during 1693-94 divided the Mennonite fellowship as members wrestled with their response to the forces of opposition and persecution.

Some Mennonites, eager to live in peace and avoid social conflict, advocated several conscious compromises with society. These Anabaptists might attend a local state church from time to time, as well as maintain social and political contacts with tolerant state-church neighbors. The Mennonites called these tolerant friends "The True-Hearted" and suggested that such folk could count on God's salvation even though they had neither received adult baptism nor accepted the consequences of leaving the legally sanctioned state church. Befriending such True-Hearted people offered the Mennonites some measure of social status. Surviving as an Anabaptist was difficult enough, many reasoned; limited cooperation with the world helped make a life of discrimination a bit more bearable.

The response of Jakob Ammann

However, not all Mennonites supported the strategy of compromise and conflict avoidance. These Anabaptists advocated spiritual renewal, strict church discipline, and separation from the world as the proper response to tough times. The most influential representative for this wing of the church was a young Anabaptist elder named Jakob Ammann. Born in Switzerland, Ammann was shepherding an Alsatian Mennonite congregation by 1693. Ammann advocated a series of reforms in his community which sparked strong debate.

First, Ammann's church celebrated communion twice a year, while other Swiss and south Rhine Mennonites observed the rite only annually. For Ammann and the reform-minded Mennonites, more frequent communion services would strengthen a congregation's spiritual life since the Mennonites stressed preparing for the Lord's Supper by closely examining their lives and relationships with God and others. As a symbol and reminder of Christian servanthood, Ammann's followers also included a literal foot washing service as a part of their communion observance.

Second, Ammann's Anabaptist fellowship did not permit its members to attend the state church. While some Anabaptists saw nothing wrong with an occasional appearance at their local parish service, Ammann's followers would not allow it. Additionally, Jakob Ammann refused to promise God's salvation to the True-Hearted. To do so would undercut both the importance of baptism and the visible church. If one could be a "secret Anabaptist" and yet remain an active and supportive member of the decadent and violent state church, then true Christianity would evaporate into individualistic spirituality. Adult baptism was too important to lightly disregard in the face of community opposition.

Third, perhaps most important factor, was Ammann's insistence on strict church discipline. Ammann's teaching was grounded on Jesus' instruction in Matthew 18. However, Ammann insisted that excommunication involved more than simply the loss of communion privileges. The church was also to break social and economic contact with the errant ones—in effect shunning the excommunicated until they repented and returned to Christ. Ammann pointed to many Scriptures and the Anabaptist tradition to support his views. In addition to such texts as Romans 16:17; 1 Corinthians 5:9-11; 2 Thessalonians 3:6, 14-15; 1 Timothy 3:2-5; and Titus 3:10, Ammann could cite the 1632 Dordrecht Confession of Faith—an important Mennonite statement which taught the social shunning of the excommunicated.

Conflict with Hans Reist

Ammann's followers also became known for their simple dress, which included untrimmed beards for men and the use of hook-and-eye coat fasteners instead of buttons. Nonconformity, humility, and simplicity were to be marks of the church.

Ammann's teaching did not meet a receptive audience in all Mennonite circles, however. One notable opponent of Ammann was a Swiss Mennonite minister named Hans Reist. While Reist thought that semiannual communion and foot washing services were simply unnecessary, he had stronger criticism for Ammann's practice of church discipline. Reist, in fact, supported the claim that the True-hearted could be saved—the visible church and believers baptism notwithstanding. Nor would Reist concede that shunning was biblical. He argued that Christ had eaten with known sinners and yet remained pure; Christ's followers could do no less.

In 1693, accompanied by several other ministers, Ammann visited Mennonite communities throughout Switzerland questioning the congregations' teachings on the True-hearted, church discipline, and the social avoidance of the excommunicated. Anabaptist church leaders called for several general meetings to discuss these hotly debated issues. However, Reist and several leaders who agreed with him refused to attend the gatherings, in one instance sending word that they were too busy with harvesting. The elder Reist also wrote a letter to another minister in which he sharply criticized young Ammann, saying that "in matters concerning doctrines and church ritual, not too much attention should be given younger men."

After Reist refused to even discuss the issues at hand, Ammann's group excommunicated Reist and those who supported him. The Ammann party reasoned that the Reist group's condescending attitude and self-righteous aloofness had divided the church. If before this encounter the Swiss Mennonites had underestimated Ammann's resolution or the seriousness with which he regarded church life, they could do so no longer. Ammann intended to establish a disciplined church even if it meant leaving behind many of his fellow Anabaptists. In the end, most of the Alsatian Anabaptists followed Ammann, while the majority of Swiss and Palatinate Mennonites sided with Reist.

A few years after the Mennonite and Amish division, a number of Amish leaders felt that they had acted too quickly. Several leaders—including Jakob Ammann himself—then decided to excommunicate themselves, symbolically demonstrating their repentance and wish to rejoin the larger church. The response of the Mennonites was disappointing at best. The Reist group reveled in the Amish admittance that they had been too quick. Some Mennonites even went so far as to label Ammann as one of several biblical figures of evil and doom. In 1699 and 1700 Mennonite leaders rebuffed repeated Amish attempts to seek peace, even after some Amish again excommunicated themselves in self-humiliation. The deep pain of the division was still too sore.

Migration to North America

Already a decade before the Ammann-Reist controversy erupted, European Mennonites had been sailing for North American shores (1683). The first few Amish families settled in Pennsylvania, probably during the mid-1730s. However, the 1737 arrival of the ship Charming Nancy brought twenty-one Amish households and established the American Amish church on a solid footing. By about 1770 some five hundred Amish had left Europe behind in hope of finding a more peaceful life in Penn's Woods.

During the first half of the nineteenth century, a much larger group of European Amish immigrated to the United States and Canada. Perhaps three thousand Amish arrived between 1817 and 1860. Almost all of these nineteenth-century immigrants settled directly in Ohio, Illinois, Ontario, Indiana, Iowa, and New York. Meanwhile, some of the descendants of the earlier eighteenth-century Amish also headed westward and founded new settlements in the Midwest.

Divisions in the 1800s

During the mid-1800s the Amish church underwent a series of struggles and disagreements which eventually severed the group. A more progressive wing of the church advocated innovations in church life, such as the use of church buildings, Sunday schools, and more lenient church discipline. More tradition-minded Amish sensed that these selected innovations carried the seeds for even greater changes in family and community life. The conservatives stressed simplicity, humility, and mutual aid. They refused to separate faith and life, realizing that all of one's work and activity—no matter how mundane—affected other relationships with family, community, and God.

A series of continent-wide Amish ministers meetings, held from 1862-1878, failed to bring the two groups together and the Amish church divided. The smaller, conservative portion of the church came to be known as the Old Order Amish and have maintained distinctive Amish practices and community life into the late twentieth century.

The larger progressive Amish camp eventually merged with various Mennonite groups. The majority of change-minded Amish joined one of three regional bodies which from 1917 to 1927 united with conferences of the Mennonite Church. Others chose to affiliate with the General Conference Mennonite Church. And one small group of progressive Amish formed the nucleus of what became the Evangelical Mennonite Church. Thus, a majority of the North American Amish gave up their historic faith identity and merged with various Mennonite groups. Often these Amish-turned-Mennonites were at the forefront of new Mennonite institutions and activities, such as the organization of Mennonite Board of Missions or the Elkhart Institute (later Goshen College).

Contribution of the Amish to life today

In North America the Old Order Amish have maintained a remarkably stable church and family life, despite the pressures of surrounding twentieth-century Canadian and American societies. Committed to living simple, unadorned Christian lives, members slow the pace of life by using horse-drawn transportation for family travel. Supporting the values of group work and cooperation, almost all Amish farmers have rejected automated agriculture in favor of more labor-intensive horse farming. Forfeiting government and commercial insurance has committed the Amish church to the serious practice of mutual aid and care for the aged. And avoiding public utility electricity frees Amish families from much of Madison Avenue's materialistic gadgetry.

The Old Order Amish have not achieved perfect harmony, to be sure. But the Amish have provided the world with a clear example of daily Christian discipleship. The biblical and cultural values which the Amish have preserved are worth the serious thought and reconsideration of Western moderns.

Perhaps North American Mennonites especially, as spiritual cousins of the Amish, should reflect on their story during this anniversary year. The issues which Jakob Ammann and Hans Reist debated three centuries ago were not trite matters of no consequence. Nineteen ninety-three would serve a good opportunity to reexamine and discuss the meaning and practice of baptism, the visible church, and church discipline. Likewise, the emphases on simple living and mutual aid, so evident among the Amish, cannot be written off as mere ethnic trappings. In a world of limited resources and growing needs, prudence and self-control are increasingly important values for all God's children. And 1993 should also be a time when Mennonites and Mennonite congregations with Amish roots discover their heritage anew. The Mennonite Church and General Conference Mennonite Church are much richer for the families and communities which have come to them with Amish backgrounds. The Mennonite Church would do well to own its Amish past, accepting its meaning and value. ■ who live in 39 countries around the globe.

In 1990, giving to the church averaged $863.35 per member. In 1991 the level of giving increased to $882.50 per member. In 1985 our per member giving was $615.33.

Size of congregations, including church plantings, range from 71 with no members to four that are 700 members and above. Congregations are located in all sizes of communities; however, more than half (583) are part of communities whose population is 50,000 and less.

The 15 conferences who consider themselves to be part of the Mennonite Church family but have chosen not to participate in the program of Mennonite Church General Assembly number 17,042 members in 353 congregations.

Creating this volume. This 81st volume of the Mennonite Yearbook involved a lot of effort by many people. First of all, much appreciation goes to congregational statisticians who provided detailed information about their churches. Their hours of labor made possible this important record for the broader church. We hope that a byproduct of this process was a clearer picture of the nature of the congregations of which they are a part. Thanks also to the representatives of Mennonite conferences, churchwide boards, and agencies who supplied information about their programs. Finally, special thanks to Mennonite Publishing House workers who, as usual, worked together under an intensive schedule to make this volume available to you in a timely fashion.

Your feedback. Your comments about this volume are welcome. Let us know what is useful as well as what is not. We know that many changes occur between the time information is collected and published. As you become aware of such changes, whether in congregational, ministerial, conference, board and agency listings, let us know. We, in the Mennonite Yearbook office, wish to keep our records up to date. Your thoughtfulness and assistance will enhance the work of all of us and will provide a clearer and more accurate picture of who we are, a people called, by the grace of God, to minister in our world today.—James E. Horsch ■

Directory of North American Congregations

This directory lists Mennonite Church congregations according to the country, state or province, and city in which they are located. Within each country (Canada, United States, and other), congregations are listed alphabetically. This directory includes all Mennonite Church congregations listed in the "Directory of Conferences and Congregations," "Directory of Urban and Area Organizations and Congregations," and "Directory of Other Mennonite Church Conferences." Finally, it includes all congregations listed in the "Directory of Other Mennonite Bodies." These include Beachy Amish (BA) and Eastern Pennsylvania Mennonite Church (EP).

Also listed in this directory are congregations affiliated with church bodies recognized by Mennonite World Conference. These include Brethren in Christ (BIC), Church of God in Christ Mennonite (CGCM), Conference of Mennonites in Canada (CMC), General Conference Mennonite (GC), Evangelical Mennonite Church (EMC), Evangelical Mennonite Conference of Canada (EMCC), Evangelical Mennonite Mission Conference of Canada (EMMC), Fellowship of Evangelical Bible Churches (FEBC), Hutterite Brethren, Dariusleut (HBD), Hutterite Brethren, Lehrerleut (HBL), Hutterite Society of Brothers (HSB), Mennonite Brethren (MB), Old Order River Brethren (OORB), Reinland Mennonite Church of Canada (RMCC), and United Zion Church (UZC). While these congregations are integrated with Mennonite Church congregations, the information about them is limited to their location, name, and affiliation.

The purpose of this directory is to provide information regarding the location of the meetinghouse. It is designed to assist readers in their efforts to find or contact the congregation at its place of meeting. This is not a mailing address. All mail should be sent to the address listed under the congregation in one of the directories listed in the first paragraph. Readers desiring to get in touch with the pastor of a congregation should follow the information provided in these same directories. (See page 6 for an explanation of the conference and church body codes used.)

Effort was made to secure complete and accurate information about each congregation listed. If there are errors and/or missing data, please provide full information to the editor, Mennonite Yearbook, 616 Walnut Ave., Scottdale PA 15683-1999. An example of a complete Mennonite Church congregational listing is as follows:

Report Congregational and Ministerial Changes

The Mennonite Yearbook maintains the official listing of Mennonite Church congregations and ministers. Should there be a change in the congregational address, telephone number, ministerial leadership, or any other details of its listing, please report these changes to the Mennonite Yearbook office as soon as possible. In order to enter changes properly the Mennonite Yearbook office needs the old information that is being replaced along with the new information which updates it.

The same request applies to ministers. Any change in the minister's address, telephone, office, function, congregational membership, conference affiliation, and other details are to be reported to the Mennonite Yearbook office as soon as possible. Please submit current information with the new information which replaces it.

Send all communications to 616 Walnut Ave., Scottdale, PA 15683-1999, or call us at 412-887-8500 or send it via fax to 412-887-3111. Also notify your conference secretary or office of these changes. Your conference secretary or office and the Mennonite Yearbook office work together closely to insure the complete accuracy of congregational and ministerial listings.

Directory of Conferences and Congregations

Related to Mennonite Church General Assembly

This directory lists Mennonite Church conferences alphabetically. Within each conference, congregations are listed alphabetically. Listed with the congregation is the person designated as the primary leader who carries the ministerial function code (1) and those who carry active responsibility (2). For a complete list of ministers see the "Ministerial Directory."

Conferences who do not participate in the program of the Mennonite Church General Assembly are included in the "Directory of Other Mennonite Church Conferences."

The purpose of this directory is to provide all information necessary to contact a given congregation. The mailing address and telephone number listed is the one designated by the congregation as its official contact. This may be the pastor's office, residence, meetinghouse, church office, or another location. Information regarding the meetinghouse (location, telephone, etc.) is provided in the "Directory of North American Congregations." (See page 6 for an explanation of the conference codes used.)

An example of a complete congregational listing in this directory is as follows:

General Board Congregations

Mennonite Church General Board congregations are those which desire membership in the Mennonite Church but are located away from other Mennonite congregations or are in the process of developing an official conference relationship. These congregations agree to submit to the bylaws of the Mennonite Church and to the spiritual oversight provided by the General Board.

Invitation...

If ministry with children is important to your church...
If you want to provide nurture for children...
If you want to reach out to children in your church, neighborhood, or community with the good news of Christ and the church...
If you want to teach children biblical knowledge and values as well as life skills...
If you want children to learn that Christians have fun—lots of fun...

Then we invite you to take a closer look at VENTURE CLUBS.

Directory of Urban and Area Organizations and Congregations

This directory lists urban councils and area organizations alphabetically. Within each organization, congregations are listed alphabetically. Listed with each congregation is the person designated as the primary leader who carries the ministerial function code (1) and those who carry active responsibility (2). For a complete list of ministers see the "Ministerial Directory."

The purpose of this directory is to identify those informal and emerging bodies which are developing within the life of the church in urban centers as well as in areas where congregations with a variety of conference affiliations and church bodies are located. Also included are those congregations identified by a common ethnic background, a common bond such as inter-Mennonite cooperation, and a common task such as church planting efforts. Most congregations are members of, and hold primary affiliation with, a Mennonite Church conference, other Mennonite or Christian body.

For an example of a complete listing in this directory see the first page of the "Directory of Conferences and Congregations."

Multi-Affiliated MC and GC Congregations

AD HOC COMMITTEE

Chairperson, James Schrag, 8201 Smucker Rd, Smithville OH 44677 (216 669-2697)

Secretary, Tom Kauffman, 211 S Bone, Normal IL 61781 (309 452-4668)

GENERAL INFORMATION AND STATISTICS

Contact person: James Schrag, Oak Gove Mennonite Church, 7843 Smucker Rd, Smithville OH 44677 (216 669-2697)

Congregations: Congregations listed in this group are not organizationally tied together. This entry is included in order to document the degree to which Mennonite Church congregations are related to the General Conference Mennonite Church. Since the Mennonite Conference of Eastern Canada is an integrated MC-GC conference, none of it's 90 congregations and 13,734 members are included in this listing.

Organization: An ad hoc committee meets to coordinate the special concerns of MACs and to communicate those concerns to denominational leadership.

History: Since 1962, new and established congregations have affiliated with more than one Mennonite body in order to retain historic ties with the Mennonite group of origin as well as to promote Mennonite unity.

GENERAL INFORMATION AND STATISTICS

Date founded: 1987.
Purpose: An organization of representatives from Native American congregations relating to the Mennonite Church. The council meets semiannually for work on issues related to Native American Ministries, promotes leadership training and development, assists with congregational resources and seminars, serves as an advocate with conferences and churchwide agencies. Sponsors inter-tribal fellowships with a biennial assembly. It is the channel for relating to the Mennonite Indian Leaders Council and Native Ministries of Canada programs of the GC as well as to other denominational programs.

Publication: United Native Ministries Newsletter (quarterly), Editorial office: 2121 Hawthorne Dr, Elkhart IN 46517 (219 295-8530).

Directory of Other Mennonite Church Conferences

Not Related to Mennonite Church General Assembly

This directory lists Mennonite Church conferences alphabetically by name of conference or fellowship. Within each one, congregations are listed alphabetically. Listed with the congregation is the person designated as the primary contact who carries the ministerial function code (1) and those who carry active responsibility (2). For a complete list of ministers see the "Mennonite Church Ministerial Directory."

The purpose of this directory is to provide all the information necessary to contact a given congregation by mail or telephone without consulting other sections of the Yearbook. The mailing address and telephone number listed is the one designated by the congregation as its official contact. This may be the pastor's office, residence, meetinghouse, church office, or another location or person. Information regarding the meetinghouse (location, telephone, etc.) is provided in the "Directory of North American Congregations" section. (See page 6 for an explanation of the conference codes used.)

For an example of a complete congregational listing in this directory see the first page of the "Directory of Conferences and Congregations."

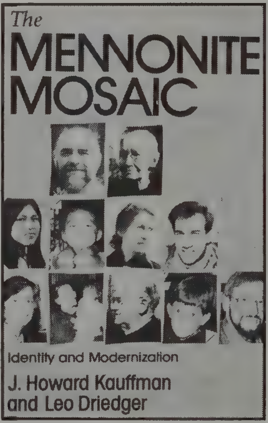
The Mennonite Mosaic:
Identity and Modernization

Results of a 1989 survey of five Mennonite and Brethren in Christ denominations are evaluated here by J. Howard Kauffman and Leo Driedger. Responses are compared to a 1972 survey of the same groups.

The study shows what happens to a group that becomes more urban and geographically mobile and attains higher educational and socioeconomic status. Have Mennonites preserved their identity as a community while becoming more involved in the larger society? What enables this sense of community to continue? How can they cope with increasing pluralism, yet remain committed to the Anabaptist tradition?
Paper, $15.95; in Canada $19.95.

Order from your local bookstore or Mennonite Publishing House, 616 Walnut Avenue, Scottdale, PA 15683-1999. Call 1 800 245-7894 or fax 412 887-3111.



Directory of Mennonite Church Organizations and Related Ministries

The ministry and mission of the Mennonite Church is carried out through boards listed below. These are supported by contributions from the membership, with exception that the program of the Mennonite Mutual Aid Board is supported by enrollment in their services and the program of the Mennonite Publication Board is supported by purchases of books, curriculum materials, magazines, as well as job printing and mailing services. Two of the associate groups—Women's Missionary and Service Commission and the United Native Ministries Council—receive their income from other than congregational offerings.

The total of the 1993 combined operating budgets of the remaining churchwide agencies (listed below) is $46,961,650. These agencies budgeted $7,168,670 as income from congregational offerings as follows: Mennonite Board of Congregational Ministries, $493,195; Mennonite Board of Education, $110,000; minority leadership education, $276,000; colleges, $1,005,000; seminaries, $504,100; Mennonite Board of Missions, $4,327,000; Mennonite Church General Board, $383,375; Associate Groups—African-American Mennonite Association, $25,000; Hispanic Mennonite Convention, $45,000.

Inter-Mennonite agencies approved for churchwide support include Mennonite Central Committee and Mennonite World Conference.

GENERAL INFORMATION AND STATISTICS

Founded: 1915; reorganized 1971.

Purpose and function: The official women's organization of the Mennonite Church, which includes individuals and groups in the congregation, conference officers, and churchwide officers and staff. The overall purpose is to nurture women for personal faith, participation in a congregation, and outreach in the global community. Printed materials, retreats, conferences and annual inspirational meetings, projects, work days, and seminars are intended to cover the constant and changing needs of Mennonite women. Areas frequently highlighted include devotional life, interpersonal relationships, family life, peace and social concerns, literature, leadership development, service involvement, stewardship, and girls' activities.

Fiscal year: February 1 to January 31.

Publication: WMSC Voice, eleven issues per year; Resource Packet, annual, published jointly with Women in Mission (GC).

Programs administered: Books Abroad and At Home; college, seminary, and graduate scholarships for women; new book allowance for overseas workers.

Other Church-Related Ministries

Other church-related ministries are programs not officially related to Mennonite Church or conference structures that have a distinct Mennonite identity and expressed objective to enrich the life and witness of the Mennonite Church. These ministries report periodically to the Mennonite Church General Board as well as district conferences on those activities and programs which contribute to the welfare of the Mennonite Church. Participation is coordinated through the office of Church-Related Ministries of the General Board.

A nonprofit group which produces media that address issues of faith and social concern from an Anabaptist/Mennonite perspective. Producers of The Radicals. Sponsored by a Mennonite board of directors.

Urban Councils and Area Church Organizations

These organizations include cooperative efforts of congregations of more than one conference or church body as well as conference level entities that include more than one conference or church body. Some of these relationships are recognized by the Mennonite Church General Board as successors to the regional structures discontinued in 1983. Others are emerging programs and activities developing in geographic areas such as large urban centers. The General Board serves as a channel of communication to the Mennonite Church General Assembly for some of these organizations. Organizations are listed by area and name.

VIRGINIA

Fellowship of Concerned Mennonites (FCM), 1516 Hawthorn Ct, Harrisonburg VA 22801 (703 434-4007), George R Brunk II, executive director.

Founded 1984. The Fellowship is a coalition of like-minded Mennonites whose concerns focus upon the basic biblical tenets of faith which have been the foundations of the sector of the reformation of the sixteenth century known as the Anabaptist Movement, with special interest in that segment of Anabaptism called Mennonite. The Fellowship was formed because certain of those basic biblical tenets of faith long held as foundational more currently are being questioned, modified, or negated, and, because by general acknowledgment, the Mennonite Church membership contains a wide range of conservative elements on the one hand and liberal elements on the other, with the latter seemingly gaining the ascendency, and, because at issue is the control of thought through the schools and through the publication of literature, and, because in the present confusion of ideas, there is need for a fundamental, distinctive, proportional, and consistent articulation of faith. Walter Beachy, president.

GENERAL INFORMATION AND STATISTICS

Date founded: 1905.

Purpose and function: The primary role of the Mennonite Board of Education is to consider Mennonite Church educational objectives and to provide for the best use of personnel and financial resources in meeting these objectives. It is responsible to the church for Hesston College, Goshen College, Eastern Mennonite College and Seminary, and Goshen Biblical Seminary. In relation to these schools, the Mennonite Board of Education appoints the presidents and institutional board members; establishes broad basic policies; reviews and approves institutional goals and objectives, long-range program and budget planning, new academic programs; makes specific policy decisions as needed, especially on relationships among Mennonite educational institutions; and works with Mennonite Church General Board in communicating financial needs of the schools to the church.

The Mennonite Board of Education works in a coordinating and consulting relationship with the 14 high schools of the Mennonite Secondary Education Council and with the 25 schools of the Mennonite Elementary Education Council.

The board meets quarterly, with the annual meeting in December or January.

Fiscal year: July 1-June 30.

1993 Special Days: Church School Day, February 7; Back to School Day, August 29.

1992-93 budget: $520,495. Additional funds in the amount of $280,147 are handled for minority education (including the High-Aim program).

Staff: full-time equivalent professional staff of 4.74.

LEGAL ENTITIES

Mennonite Mutual Aid provides insurance products, financial services, charitable programs, and educational resources to help Mennonites and related groups practice the biblical principles of mutual aid and stewardship. To accomplish this, MMA programs operate through eight legal entities. The MMA Board of Directors serves as the board for each of the following:

Mennonite Mutual Aid, Inc.—Vehicle for office facilities, salary administration, and coordination of other MMA entities.

The Mennonite Foundation, Inc.—Receives, manages, and distributes gifts of cash and property for Mennonite conferences and institutions.

Mennonite Mutual Aid Association—Fraternal benefit association; provides medical expense and life plans for individuals, congregations and institutions, and retirement plans for people with earned income.

Mennonite Automobile Aid, Inc.—Comprehensive and collision coverages, avoids litigation.

ShareNet Insurance, Inc.—Provides group health and life insurance plans for Mennonite employers.

Mennonite Retirement Trust—Trusteeship which provides church workers retirement plan.

Menno Insurance Service, Inc.—Stock corporation owned by MMA; provides employee benefits management, and property and casualty risk management.

Mennonite Church Buildings, Inc.—Provides investment and financing for institutions and congregations. Also owns the building occupied by MMA offices.

GENERAL INFORMATION AND STATISTICS

Date founded: 1945. Began as loan aid program for returning Civilian Public Service men following World War II.

Purpose and Function: Leads Mennonites and related groups toward greater practice of the biblical principles of stewardship and mutual aid. As an inter-Mennonite church organization, we offer members the opportunity to help each other by sharing financial risks and resources. To achieve this, MMA provides insurance products, financial services, charitable programs, and educational resources.

Groups served by MMA: MC, GC, MB, and related groups. MMA reports quarterly to the Mennonite Church General Board.

Publications: Sharing, quarterly 20-page magazine with people-oriented views for Mennonite Mutual Aid members, pastors, congregational mutual aid appointees, and others who are interested; The Tool Kit, bi-monthly newsletter about financial, health, lifestyle, and safety concerns for pastors, congregations, and others who are interested.

Staff: 225 in staff and field assignments.

Hesston College

The Mission of Hesston College

Hesston College exists to develop persons toward the model of Jesus Christ as revealed in his life and teachings and toward active participation with the Body of Christ, the church in the world. This commitment calls for a style of education that is radically person-centered. The focus of the College community is the nurture and development of the student.

GENERAL INFORMATION AND STATISTICS

Date of organization: 1920

Mission statement: MCC is an agency of the Mennonite and Brethren in Christ churches in North America. MCC seeks to demonstrate God's love through committed women and men who work among people suffering from poverty, conflict, oppression, and natural disaster. MCC serves as a channel for interchange between churches and community groups where we work around the world and the North American churches who send us, so that all may grow and be transformed. MCC strives for peace, justice, and dignity of all people by sharing our experiences, resources, and faith in Jesus Christ.

Participating bodies: M and BIC conferences in the U.S. and Canada, as well as regional and provincial MCC organizations. For names of participating church bodies see MCC under codes for "Boards and Agencies" on page 6.

Health and Human Services, Mennonite

This section includes both general agencies and individual institutions that serve in the health and human services ministry of the Mennonite church. Institutions relate to the church in a variety of ways through local, conference, and churchwide agencies. These relationships and the sponsoring board are noted in each listing.

The Mennonite Health Association (MHA) serves as a coordinating agency in gathering the data included in the following registry.

GENERAL AGENCIES

Mennonite Health Association (MHA), PO Box 818, Goshen IN 46526-0818 (219 533-9069; fax 219 533-5264), Dean Preheim-Bartel, executive director.

Founded 1952. MHA is an organization of healthcare professionals and volunteers, agencies and institutions. It is a voluntary group, joining together for mutual support and service within the community of faith. MHA serves the inter-Mennonite community, believing that health is an important part of the mission of the church in sharing an Anabaptist commitment to wholeness and love, in the practice of healing and caring.

MHA seeks to encourage Christian calling and commitment to the healthcare vocations; to assist the church in developing its vision for healthcare and the renewal of its spiritual resources for healing and caring; to educate members and communities about the theological dimensions of health and healing; to sponsor studies on policy and ethical issues related to health, access to healthcare, and new technologies; to communicate news and information that will assist in making personal choices; to serve its members in support of their common mission.

MHA is organized to provide network, resource, and support. It seeks to promote biblical faith as a foundation for wholeness and a healthful lifestyle for every person, to help Mennonite conferences, congregations, and their members to serve others through: health and welfare programs, hospitals, nursing homes and related services, medical assistance, chaplaincy services, disability programs, child care, and services to mentally ill.

The MHA maintains a fraternal and working relationship with the Canadian Mennonite Health Association.

Thrift Shops and SELFHELP Crafts, MCC

Mennonite Central Committee (MCC) shops are the result of constituent concern for human need, both locally and globally. These shops are generally sponsored by local congregations and rely on local volunteer participation. Funds generated by the successful operation of the shops support MCC's relief, development and SELFHELP Crafts programs.

There are more than 100 MCC shops in the U.S. and Canada. MCC shops have a two-fold purpose: to meet local needs through the resale of used clothing and household items; to link constituents and the general public to craft producers in developing countries through the sale of SELFHELP Crafts. Participating bodies: MCC. Founded 1972 (Thrift Shops) and 1946 (SELFHELP).

Directory of Overseas Mennonite Churches and Programs

The following list of overseas Mennonite churches and programs was provided by the Council of International Ministries (CIM). Since CIM is an inter-Mennonite agency this listing includes churches and programs related to all of the participating Mennonite bodies in North America. The name of the specific sponsoring or fraternal North American organization is identified with each entry. Also listed for each is the name, address, and other information about the designated contact person.

For further information about the overseas church or program, such as number of members and congregations, leaders, names of North American workers, and other details, contact the sponsoring agency. Names and addresses of CIM member agencies are listed in the "Directory of Mennonite and Inter-Mennonite Projects." You may also contact Ron Yoder, secretary/treasurer of CIM, PO Box 370, Elkhart, IN 46515-0370 (219 294-7523).

Directory of Other Mennonite Bodies

This directory lists the Beachy Amish Church (BA) and the Eastern Pennsylvania Mennonite Church (EP). These bodies relate informally to the Mennonite Church on a fraternal basis.

Within each body, congregations are listed alphabetically. Listed with the congregation is the person designated as the primary contact who carries the ministerial function code (1) as well as ministers who carry active responsibility (2). All other ministers are included only in the "Ministerial Directory" found with each body, after its organizational and congregational entries.

The purpose of this directory is to provide all the information necessary to contact a given congregation by mail or telephone without consulting other sections of the Yearbook. The mailing address and telephone number listed is the one designated by the congregation as its official contact. This may be the pastor's office, residence, meetinghouse, church office, or another location or person. Information regarding the meetinghouse (location, telephone, etc.) is provided in the "Directory of North American Congregations" section. (See page 6 for an explanation of the conference codes used.)

For an example of a complete congregational listing in this directory see the first page of the "Directory of Conferences and Congregations."

Notes:

1. Conference totals are drawn from congregational reports. No attempt was made to project 100% totals for congregations who did not supply complete or accurate information.
2. Definitions:
   a. Members—All who have been baptized and have been received as members of congregations.
   b. Nonmembers—All (children, youth, and adults) who participate in congregational life but are not members
   c. Adherents—Total members and nonmembers

Notes:

1. Conference totals are drawn from congregational reports. No attempt was made to project 100% totals for congregations who did not supply complete or accurate information.
2. Definitions:
   a. Members—All who have been baptized and have been received as members of congregations.
   b. Nonmembers—All (children, youth, and adults) who participate in congregational life but are not members
   c. Adherents—Total members and nonmembers

Report Congregational and Ministerial Changes

The Mennonite Yearbook maintains the official listing of Mennonite Church congregations and ministers. Should there be a change in the congregational address, telephone number, ministerial leadership, or any other details of its listing, please report these changes to the Mennonite Yearbook office as soon as possible. In order to enter changes properly the Mennonite Yearbook office needs the old information that is being replaced along with the new information which updates it.

The same request applies to ministers. Any change in the minister's address, telephone, office, function, congregational membership, conference affiliation, and other details are to be reported to the Mennonite Yearbook office as soon as possible. Please submit current information with the new information which replaces it.

Send all communications to 616 Walnut Ave., Scottdale, PA 15683-1999, or call us at 412-887-8500 or send it via fax to 412-887-3111. Also notify your conference secretary or office of these changes. Your conference secretary or office and the Mennonite Yearbook office work together closely to insure the complete accuracy of congregational and ministerial listings.

All data on this table are for youth and students from congregations in North American conferences affiliated with Mennonite Church General Assembly (see list of conferences on Table 22); students from other Mennonite groups (including smaller Mennonite Church conferences and overseas conferences) and other-than-Mennonite students are not included in these numbers.

Numbers for Mennonite colleges and seminaries are for full-time students only; numbers for other colleges and universities may include some part-time students. (Information on attendance at other colleges and universities gathered by Student and Young Adult Services of Mennonite Board of Missions.)

Separate figures reported for Goshen College regular program and degree-completion program.

Mennonite Church Ministerial Directory

This directory lists all ordained, licensed, or commissioned men and women who are members of the Mennonite Church in North America. It includes ministers of Mennonite Church conferences who do, and those who do not, participate in the program of Mennonite Church General Assembly. (These are from congregations listed in "Directory of Conferences and Congregations," "Directory of Urban and Area Organizations and Congregations," and "Directory of Other Mennonite Church Conferences.") The information provided for each minister is: name, four-digit individual identification code (the code number is assigned to insure correct identity of each minister, especially on those occasions when the name is identical or similar to another name in the directory), name of spouse, address, telephone (while the home information is requested, some ministers prefer an office listing), office, year of ordination, function, year of birth, congregational name and number (if person carries function 1), conference affiliation. See example below. Where information is not available or not applicable, it is omitted.

The Amish of Canada, by Orland Gingerich, Herald Press, 1978. (Out of print. Check libraries.) The Canadian Amish story from a Western Ontario Amish Mennonite perspective.

The Beachy Amish Mennonite Fellowship Churches, by Elmer S. Yoder, Diakonia Ministries, 1987. The largest group (7,000 members) between the Amish and Mennonites.

A History of the Amish, by Steven Nolt, Good Books, 1992, $9.95 ($13.00 in Canada). A first attempt to bring together Amish history in one very readable volume.

Mennonites in Illinois, by Willard H. Smith, Herald Press, 1983, $24.95 ($29.95 in Canada). Until the twentieth century, most of these people were Amish.

Peace, Faith, Nation: Mennonites and Amish in Nineteenth-Century America, by Theron F. Schlabach, Herald Press, 1988, $19.95 ($24.95 in Canada). Mennonite history looking sympathetically at the "pre-quickened" Amish and Mennonites.

The Riddle of Amish Culture, by Donald B. Kraybill, Johns Hopkins University Press, 1989, $9.95. A perceptive social history of Amish life in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania.

Tradition and Transition: Amish Mennonites and Old Order Amish, 1800-1900, by Paton Yoder, Herald Press, 1991, $28.95 ($35.95 in Canada). Fascinating story of the Amish Mennonite Diener Versammlungen (minister's meetings).

Readings selected and annotated by Levi Miller, director Mennonite Historical Committee. Books are available through Provident and other religious bookstores (prices may vary).
